Anna

*Moanalua High School, 2011
Center for Tomorrow's Leaders*

As a talented emerging leader of faith, Anna sought to answer a pressing question in her mind: How does a Christian be successful in the business world? To help her answer that question, Anna's teacher recommended her to be a Fellow in the Center for Tomorrow's Leaders. She applied and was accepted into the CTL class of 2011 in September. Over the next several months, Anna interviewed numerous business leaders and asked many of them about the relationship between faith and business.

Not only did Anna conclude that Christians can indeed be successful business leaders, she became excited about the possibilities for her own leadership.

After the CTL Leadership Academy in December, she said,

"Hearing these leaders speak made me think about how I will impact the world in the future. I know God has destined me for greatness, like He has destined everyone for their own greatness."

She was also struck by the importance of Christian leaders

"staying grounded in the Bible and always staying humble."

Through the CTL, Anna says she is not afraid to use her gifts to make a difference in the world.

"I've been inspired to take my strengths and apply them for God's glory."
